To Whom It May Concern,

I write this letter to affirm that my experience dealing with the Vancouver Paranormal Society has been outstanding. We have had numerous occurrences of what can safely be described as paranormal activity here at [REDACTED] fairly consistently for at least 15 years and I have always wanted to have an investigation done. This past Hallowe'en, I saw the Vancouver Paranormal Society mentioned in the Vancouver Province and, after doing some research online and after securing permission from our general manager, I decided to contact the VPS and see if they would be interested in coming for an investigation.

I sent an email explaining some of the events that had occurred here and received a prompt reply from Scott Williamson indicating that they would be very interested in coming down. We set a date for the investigation and I met the team as they arrived. It was then that I met Peter Renn, Scott Williamson and the rest of the team and I have to say that they were extremely professional, respectful and polite from start to finish. They clearly cared about not only the activity that was going on, but also the people it was happening to. Throughout their investigation and in all communication I have had with all members of their team, the members of the VPS have been a pleasure to work with. So much so, in fact, that we have welcomed them back a couple of times since their initial visit and we would be happy to continue to host them as often as they are willing to come back.

The VPS has absolutely exceeded our expectations and we look forward to having them back in the future.

Yours truly,
